Day 7: Day 7: Snæfellsnes Peninsula – The Journey to the Center of the Earth

Breakfast at hotel. On this day venture into one of the most exciting and famous places in Iceland, Snæfellsnes Peninsula, where Julius Verne found inspiration for his book “Journey to the Center of the Earth”. Kirkjufell mountain, located on the northern site of the Snæfellsnes

Peninsula, is one of the most picturesque mountains in Iceland, and with the Kirkjufell waterfall in the vicinity makes a wonderful nature stop. Djúpalónssandur black beach is a bay at the tip of Snæfellsnes Peninsula. The black small pebbles on the beach have been smoothed by the ocean waves, and amongst them are scattered rusty parts of a wreckage of a ship that stranded in the area in 1948. Lóndrangar cliffs are volcanic plugs of basalt, of 61 and 75 metres of height, that have formed by erosion of the surrounding material. Add on: Vatnshellir lava cave is a lava tube in a 8000 year lava field. The lava was formed in an eruption in a nearby crater Purkhólar. During the eruption the lava flowed downhill, cooling down on the surface while still running below, ultimately draining out and leaving a beautiful lava tube, which is now accessible. Hellnar and Arnarstapi are small and ancient fishing villages. Hellnar beach has amazing rock formation which will be visited. Visit Ytri Tunga Beach and see wild seals in their natural environment. Spend the night in Reykjavík.

Overnight Stay at Hotel.

Day 8: Day 8: Departure

Breakfast at hotel. Departure. Private transfer from hotel to airport.
